ARTIS—NAPLES ANNOUNCES CHANGES TO EVENING PERFORMANCE TIMES STARTING 2024-25 SEASON

Naples, FL (February 7, 2024)—Artis—Naples, home of The Baker Museum and the Naples Philharmonic, announced today significant changes to its Hayes Hall performance schedule.

In response to audience feedback about preferred event start times, beginning with the 2024-25 season, evening performances Monday through Saturday in Hayes Hall will now start at 7:30pm instead of 8pm. This includes Naples Philharmonic Masterworks and Pops, Visiting Orchestras, Dance and Broadway series performances as well as special presentations. The standard start time for Sunday evening performances remains unchanged at 7pm.

This adjustment is part of the multidisciplinary organization's commitment to enhancing the overall patron experience. The modification is exclusive to evening performances in Hayes Hall and does not impact the current season's programming. All currently scheduled performances through the ongoing 2023-24 season will retain their original start times.

"Artis—Naples constantly strives to share inspiring cultural experiences with our patrons," said Artis—Naples CEO and President Kathleen van Bergen, noting that the announcement comes before the organization launches sales for the 2024-25 season. "As we begin to announce our upcoming season's programming, we are pleased to also share this important update to our event times starting next season. Moving most of our Hayes Hall start times from 8pm to 7:30pm enables us to better align with the preferences of our patrons and will allow more of the community to enjoy our offerings."

Patrons are encouraged to carefully review their tickets for accurate time and date information to ensure a seamless and enjoyable experience. This change aims to better accommodate the diverse Southwest Florida community and to optimize patrons' Artis—Naples experience.
